Hon. Butler on the Financial Question

Gen Butler was invited to address a public meeting under the auspices of the Legal Tender Club of this city. Other engagements making it impossible for him to be present the general writes I am unable to comprehend appreciate and much as I admire that system of government finances which has so wrought upon the business and production of the country that over 2,000 000 persons are employing men and people who desire productive employment have not had it for the last two years and by which production which they would have added to the wealth of the country during that time is lost. Assuming that each one in that number is as skilled and remunerated could have an average of $2 per day for working days of the past year, then we have lost $1,200 000 000 or about equal to one half the national debt by the enforced idleness to say nothing of the loss in morals of working men and women How long active business and property holders and holders of those kinds of property which are open to the tax-gatherer will permit a system so destructive to their interests and which exhibits their property shall depreciate 33 per cent in value while the owners of property such as real mortgages and bonds, which are untaxed become richer open to the tax gatherer I have thus far appreciated and escaped taxation as a probable result of the good sense of people of this country will show in the coming presidential election

STRAINS PHYSIC

[Indianapolis Journal July 31]

Wm M Aughinbaugh a young druggist was arrested yesterday morning for larceny. For nearly a year several drug firms have been missing articles of value—quinine morphine iodide of potassium and other drugs of a costly and profitable nature—and though suspicion had pointed in his direction his previous good character and the danger of making such a serious charge without incontrovertible proof had deterred the sufferers from instituting their losses At Hasket & Hetselgesser's, however, these omissions had taken shape and Mr Hetselgesser on the 10th inst resolved to render any further aid the officers in charge of the capture of the culprit It seems that Aughinbaugh in having in his supplies of stock would call at this as at the other establishments at an early hour in the morning, when there was no one in attendance but the porter whose duty it was to sweep out the store and call for some article which he knew to be on the second or third floor and while the porter was absent attending to his order he would fill his pockets with the more valuable drugs A hole was bored in the partition of the stairway leading into the basement, and at an early hour yesterday morning when Frederic Odder the porter gave the signal that Aughinbaugh was coming, Mr Hetselgesser secreted himself and glued his eye to the auger hole which gave a full view of the store Aughinbaugh called for two pounds of mustard, and while the porter went to the third floor to get the article he commenced his work, pocketing in rapid succession one pound iodide potassium one pound hydrate chloral and two boxes of pills. After securing his mustard seed Aughinbaugh walked briskly down the street followed by Mr Hetselgesser and the police who arrested him on Illinois street All the articles except the hydrate of chloral were found on his person What disposition he made of that is unknown He was taken to the station house and at his preliminary examination before Mayor Caven pleaded not guilty and was placed under $300 bonds to await the action of the grand jury The value of the articles stolen is about $8

CONTRACTS FOR SALE OF GRAIN

An interesting case involving the question of fulfillment of grain contracts was lately decided in the supreme court of Illinois By the terms of the contract for the sale and delivery of grain the seller had the option of during the time of delivery at any time before the end of the year The seller exercised such option within the time allowed, by tendering current store receipts for the grain at the rooms of the board of trade and offering to make the tender at the purchaser's office if he would state where it was and be giving not out of the same built but if he refused the seller would terminate the contract which was refused He could hold That by such tender or offer to perform and refusal the purchaser ceased to have the right to insist upon the agreement and could not maintain action for the non performance of the contract Where a tender of warehouse receipts for grain was made by the seller to the purchaser as above stated the tender was sufficient and the refusal obviated the necessity of a tender at the office of the purchaser That an offer to perform is not necessary where the other party has wrongfully declared that he will not receive the property and will not perform the contract Where a tender of warehouse receipts for grain was made by the seller to the purchaser as above stated the tender was sufficient and the refusal obviated the necessity of a tender at the office of the purchaser That an offer to perform is not necessary where the other party has wrongfully declared that he will not receive the property and will not perform the contract

Fifth Day's Session

MONDAY Aug 17

Washington's welcome to her mother Grand Lodge is the superscription on the neat invitation card issued by Grand Master Hayden of the committee at this place and these words indicate that the Masonic reunion that is being witnessed here is an event of more than usual significance The term reunion has come to be applied thoughtlessly to almost any kind of gathering but it could not have a truer application than in connection with the really extraordinary meeting of which Olympia is now favored as being the scene The two Grand Lodges of Oregon and Washington bear just such relation to each other as the yard of Mr Hayden ascribes to them Their reunion is proving as joyful as the meeting of nearest relatives after years of separation It is something quite as sacred and it may be that one reason why Idaho and British Columbia have not as yet sent their legally qualified representatives is from an appreciation of the sacredness of the event No stranger would intrude in the welcome with which those near and dear to each mark their first meeting after a long lapse of time This was the day of reunion in the Masonic pilgrimage It had been set apart for addresses of welcome and speeches in response to reminiscences of old times when the lodges were one to talk over that memorable day of separation of which this is the more memorable corollary when the Masons of Washington Territory withdrew—to the regret of their brethren but bearing with them their brethren's best wishes—and formed their own Grand Lodge

The Grand Lodges met this forenoon in Masonic Hall the councils of the Scottish Rite and the Blue lodges meeting in other buildings About 11 o'clock the lodges met together and were formed in procession in the following order by Chief Marshal Major Haller

There were three councils of the Scottish Rite present, namely the Multnomah Council of Kadosh, of Portland, the DeMolay Council of Washington Territory and the Giles M Hillyer Council of Salem, the brethren belonging to this rite were [illegible] numerous enough to make an imposing display and dressed in the magnificent regalia of the order to which they have attained gave an air of brilliancy to the procession, at which the head of the column came to be applied thoughtlessly to almost any kind of gathering but it could not have a truer application than in connection with the really extraordinary meeting of which Olympia is now favored as being the scene The two Grand Lodges of Oregon and Washington bear just such relation to each other as the yard of Mr Hayden ascribes to them Their reunion is proving as joyful as the meeting of nearest relatives after years of separation It is something quite as sacred and it may be that one reason why Idaho and British Columbia have not as yet sent their legally qualified representatives is from an appreciation of the sacredness of the event No stranger would intrude in the welcome with which those near and dear to each mark their first meeting after a long lapse of time This was the day of reunion in the Masonic pilgrimage It had been set apart for addresses of welcome and speeches in response to reminiscences of old times when the lodges were one to talk over that memorable day of separation of which this is the more memorable corollary when the Masons of Washington Territory withdrew—to the regret of their brethren but bearing with them their brethren's best wishes—and formed their own Grand Lodge

THE PRESIDENT

Then said that he felt highly honored at being called upon to preside over that interesting assemblage He felt at the same time that he was appropriating an honor that justly and of right belonged to another He alluded to their illustrious Brother Jennings the first Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Oregon During the fall of 1849, Mr Jennings while a citizen of Sacramento contributed largely to the relief of distressed Masons who at that time came across the plains in large numbers He gave so freely that he depleted his own resources Afterward misfortunes came upon him one after another and to-day he was with them poor perhaps in this world's goods but rich in the consciousness of knowing that he had discharged his whole duty as a man and a Mason Mr Jennings was the patriarch and father of the two Grand Lodges now on the ground and as such he would be honored by all who were present [Applause] This occasion interesting as it is he (the president) regarded as a parallel only to the grand feature of the week the clam bake of the morrow We, from the land of Webfeet, have and have heard great stories of your clams and have come to join the great throng of witnesses regarding them We hear that as the bogs root them up the crows pounce upon them and rising with them in the air drop them upon the rocks breaking the shell and thus securing the contents We hear also that you have clams of such dimensions that one will subsist an ordinary sized family for a whole day [Laughter] that you measure their necks with a yard stick [Renewed laughter] and that no one can go hungry when he can get a square meal once in twenty four hours when the tide goes out These stories may or may not be true but one thing is certain that if this is a day to be honored to-morrow will be one which will be long remembered. [Response from a hungry brother So mote it be!]

THE ADDRESS OF WELCOME

[illegible] G M Reed (Washington Territory) who was now introduced and the pleasing duty now devolved upon him to proclaim on this day of grand Masonic reception a welcome to all The brethren of Washington Territory, hailed with fraternal congratulations the brethren of Idaho Oregon, Washington and British Columbia and last only regret was that words failed to convey the full measure of the sincerity and heartiness of that welcome That occasion he regarded as the dawn of a still brighter day in their Masonic progress for these were gatherings that tended to increase their faith in the Grand Architect and Ruler of the world and that tended to strengthen their hearts for greater zealousness in promoting the objects of the institution to which they belonged Viewed in its chronological aspect he believed that that occasion would mark an epoch in the history of Masonry on the Pacific coast to which the members of the fraternity to come would come after them as well as themselves would point with feelings of sincere pride and interest There was every reason to feel assured that the mutual congratulations and recreative pleasures superinduced by these reunions would ensure their repetition at convenient seasons but aside from this such reunions would be productive of events grander and more endearing to their material progress as a fraternity than they could now properly estimate Passing on to treat of Free Masonry in its social aspect he said that the system founded upon the principles of divine truth not only taught the high moral elevation of mankind and opened to the admiring gaze of its votaries the light of a true and sacred philosophy but it indicated and enjoined fraternal sociability Fear ceases to day partook largely of this reunion and yet they came as a band of brothers united as with one heart and not in the holy objects and purposes of this association They came not to unfurl to lay their banners and show their insignia to the outer world though they confessed it was not without pride that they exhibited so much of that was symbolic of their profession the anathemas of bigots and the thunders of the Vatican to the contrary notwithstanding They came not for an injury nor for conquest nor to allure nor to deceive but they were there to greet each other to greet one and all Their object was social peaceful love charity true benevolence good will to all They had no secrets inconsistent with the [illegible] Their grand and paramount secret was love Freemasonry was a moral science and all the secrets in Masonry worth knowing to the uninitiated were published to the world If the world knew them not it was for the same reason that the secrets of astronomy chemistry and other sciences were so little known Masonic literature teemed with lessons of truth profound philosophical instructive and elevating not only in the inculcation of a system of sound morals but in all those high social relations so delightfully pleasing to the wise and the good All distinctions among men were brought to a level among Masons True merit, innate worthiness and nobility of soul were the ingredients that made up a true Mason hence no princely or political station no worldly rank or power, prevailed with them They all met upon the level and parted upon the square This equality gave a pre eminence to the social relations of the order, of which no other institution could boast Nor was their work exclusive Every human being was regarded in their kind offices and the world through in a great measure unconscious of the fact received untold benefits from them Intelligent men did not doubt the once existing nor the godlike character of the man Jesus whether they were believers in his divinity or not. Why was he in turn called the friend of publicans and sinners? The history of his life was replete with the answer Genial, loving sympathetic himself, he loved the society of man and his influence in social relations was wonderfully potent filling the human heart with fresh streams of joy and delight Let them strive to emulate these noble virtues and practice in their lives what they professed in their creed and published upon their banners [Applause]

THE RESPONSE.

J N Dolph (G. O. Oregon) gracefully acknowledged the address of welcome, and assured the brethren of the Territory that although the arrangements for this reunion would necessarily leave the brethren of Oregon indebted to them for many fraternal acts and kind offices which they could only hope on some future occas

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 19, 1875.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES.

One week ago yesterday morning Mr. Geo. M. Whitney, of Lane county, was nominated by the Independent State Convention, at Salem, as the candidate of the Independent party for Congressman. Not many members of the convention were personally acquainted with him, but the report given of him by those who knew him was such that he was supported very cheerfully and after his nomination the general satisfaction became more decided, on account of the favorable opinion expressed of him by persons outside the convention who were acquainted with him. But in the evening there fell, like a thunderbolt, on the Independents a dispatch addressed by Mr. Whitney to Mr. Jason Owens, a member of the Republican State Convention, which was then in session, saying in substance that he (Mr. Whitney), in accepting the Independent nomination, had done so with the understanding that he would be the nominee of both the Independents and the Republicans, and that he had not expected to accept the Independent nomination unless that of the Republicans also was given him. The Independent Convention had then adjourned. The Republicans saw the advantage which this change in the attitude of affairs gave them, and did not stand long upon the question of using it. They nominated Mr. Henry Warren and adjourned with banners gaily flying, whereas before the receipt of the dispatch from Mr. Whitney they were about the most melancholy, looking assemblage we remember ever to have seen.

The Independents were angry, of course. As far as they thought they had been betrayed into the hands of the Republican ring by Mr. Whitney. Then they reconsidered that. The character of the man was a guaranty against it. The dispatch to Owens must have been bogus—a forgery. If not, then Whitney himself had been imposed upon by somebody.

The last hypothesis was correct. Whitney had acted in the utmost good faith. The dispatch was not bogus, but genuine. Whitney had been shamefully imposed on by a sharper sent from the Republican convention, and had been led to do an act which practically laid him and the Independent partylow, for the purposes of the present campaign. At least so it looks now.

Our readers have had an opportunity to read the dispatches passed between Mr. Whitney and members of the two conventions, and have been informed of the facts of the case, so far as we know them. It is unnecessary, at this time, to detail them at length. The day after the Republican convention, a press telegram from Salem said Mr. Whitney had concluded to run as the Independent candidate; but we have seen nothing purporting to come from him on the subject, since the dispatch to Owens. A day or two after the convention he visited Portland and some consultation with Independents here, but the only utterances we heard him make concerning his purposes, was, that he would do as his friends thought best under the circumstances. Many Independents thought, that notwithstanding the fact that he had been tricked into sending the unfortunate telegram, its effect on the election would be very disastrous to him and the Independent party, and that the more discreet course was for him not to enter the contest; while others believed Mr. Whitney should by all means run the race through. No conclusion was reached at that interview, and Mr. Whitney left the city on last Monday morning. Since then, hearing rumors that he had concluded to run, and counter rumors that he would retire, we have refrained from making any allusion to the subject, lest, in the absence of authoritative information, we should say that which would better be left unsaid. But we have now waited as long as our relations to the Independent organization or to Mr. Whitney require, and longer than the sentiments of an indulgent public could have expected; and still we have no intimation from Mr. Whitney as to what he intends to do, though his last utterance, the dispatch to Mr. Owens, has been published a week. It was a matter of peculiar importance to us to know Mr. Whitney's determination in the premises, for reasons unnecessary to be stated here, but of the nature of which he was fully informed. We have concluded, at last, to end the suspense, so far as the OREGONIAN is concerned. We shall accept Mr. Whitney's last telegram—that to Owens—as a finality, and take it for granted he has concluded not to run.

Henry Warren, or Lafayette Lane, or no candidate at all?—that seems to be the question for Independents. We assume that not many will care to disfranchise themselves by refusing to vote. Independents ought to be independent enough to vote for the best of two or more candidates, regardless of who has nominated them. And no Independent, be he of Republican or Democratic antecedents, is by any sort of party usage under the least obligation to vote for that one of the two candidates which has been selected by the party to which such Independent formerly belonged. Warren's nomination should be held as nothing to the Independent of Republican antecedents, and so should Lane's to the Independent who formerly belonged to the Democratic party. The choice should be made between the men as men, not as Republican or Democrat. From this standpoint, and upon this ground, and this alone, we prefer Warren. His character is above reproach, he has as much ability as Lane, and possesses the advantage of a broader experience with men and affairs, and in our judgment would make the more useful member of congress—if either of them could be of any use. But we have no fault to find with those Independents who prefer Lane, as many no doubt will. It is a matter of individual choice, and every man is entitled to his preference.

It is not without great reluctance that we take the stand here indicated. Both for reasons personal to ourselves and for the principle involved we should have been more than willing to accord Mr. Whitney a hearty support, had he not by his own act made it impossible for him to carry anything like the strength of the Independent party. And even after his dispatch to Owens we should have welcomed any explanation from him which might have tended to set him and the cause he was chosen to represent in their proper light before the public. He talked of making such an explanation, and the columns of the OREGONIAN were offered for the purpose. We should have preferred to support Mr. Whitney, because he is as well qualified for the office as Warren; because he was the choice of men who are not professional politicians; because he was, in our opinion, on a better platform of principles than that upon which Warren stands; and we are aware of the misconstruction and misunderstanding we subject ourselves to in supporting Warren. However, we do not desire to belittle the Independent party, or the OREGONIAN, by attempting the election of a man who has crippled himself till he cannot make a respectable race, as we are satisfied, after consulting with Independents from various parts of the State, was the case with Mr. Whitney from the moment he sent the Owens telegram. The Independent organization has done great good in the State and in the several counties where it was successful, and we should not care to assist now in placing it before the public in a condition that will make it appear merely as an insignificant faction.

The European powers are in great trouble about the civil war in Turkey. They are afraid the dissolution of the Ottoman empire is imminent. At least that is the way they put it. Some people, however, will suspect they are more concerned as to how the estate shall be divided when the sick man dies. The world would be none the worse off for the disappearance of the Ottoman empire, if the European vultures would only not get to fighting, over its remains. There is more danger to be apprehended from the wars of Christians over the division of the spoils than from any ills to result directly from the downfall of Turkey.

The collision between the royal yacht and another, came near resulting in the loss of a very good queen. But fortune somehow always attends those who have least need of it. The queen's yacht ran the other down and wrecked it with loss of life.

CRUELLY ABANDONED TO DIE.—An instance of Chinese barbarity and heathenism came to light yesterday. A China woman, it seems, had been very ill for some time in a small tenement near the corner of Front and Second streets. She had consumption and was reduced to a living skeleton. Her feeble and emaciated condition is evident to the average Chinese mind, and the miserable creature was beyond the reach of human skill, and that speedily decided. In conformity to a long established custom among these cruel and degraded beings, it was determined at once to abandon the hopeless invalid to her fate. Accordingly yesterday afternoon the unfortunate creature was carried from the room which she had long occupied to a little shed standing on the south side of Pine street between First and Second, and left to die neglected and alone. The building has been occupied for a long time and was partially destroyed by fire several months ago. One of the women was placed on old mattresses in the back rooms. On the front side of the room, on a pitcher partially filled with water was placed, and on the opposite side a small Chinese lamp, burning, the yellow and flickering rays of which, but feebly lighted the apartment, and rendered the gloomy surroundings of the place and ghostly appearance of the dying woman painfully realistic. Just at twilight, in company with Officer Appeus, we visited the wretched abode and stood on the squalid threshold of which death was soon to claim its victim. About the room, in the corner which the abandoned creature was lying, was piled in great confusion the household effects supposed to belong to her. We have seldom looked upon a more pitiable spectacle than that of the abandoned creature was attenuated to skin and bones, and each gasp she gave for breath seemed as if it would be her last. At the present writing she has doubtless died, as no one could possibly last through the night. Chief Lappeus questioned very closely a number of Chinamen about the woman, but could elicit nothing satisfactory. All he CRUELLY ABANDONED TO DIE.—Another instance of Chinese barbarity and heartlessness came to light yesterday A China woman it seems had been very ill for some time in a small tenement near the corner of Oak and Second streets She had consumption and was reduced to a living skeleton From her feeble and emaciated condition it became evident to the average Chinese intellect that the miserable creature was beyond the pow er of human skill and that speedy death was a foregone conclusion In conformity with a long established custom among these heartless and degraded beings it was determined at once to abandon the hopeless invalid to her fate Accordingly yesterday afternoon the unfortunate creature was carried from the room which she had long occupied to a little house standing on the south side of Pine Street be tween First and Second, and left to die neg lected and alone The building has been un occupied for a long time and was partially de stroyed by fire several months ago The sick woman was placed on old mattress in one of the back rooms On the front side of the bed a pitcher partially filled with water was placed and on the opposite side a small Chinese lamp dimly burning, the yellow and flickering rays of which but feebly lighted up the apartment and rendered the gloomy sur roundings of the place and ghostly appear ance of the dying woman painfully visible Just at twilight, in company with Chief Lap peus we visited the wretched abode across the squalid threshold of which death was so soon to stalk About the room in the center of which the abandoned creature was lying was piled in great confusion the household effects supposed to belong to her We have seldom looked upon a more pitiable spectacle The abandoned creature was attenuated to skin and bones, and each gasp she gave for breath seemed as if it would be her last. Ere the present writing she has doubtless died as she could not possibly last through the night Chief Lappeus questioned very closely a num ber of Chinamen about the woman, but could elicit nothing satisfactory All he could ob tain was the dubious shake of the head and the sententious but indefinite response of Me no Sabe.

CAPTAIN BUCHANAN'S NEW BOAT.—For some weeks past a number of carpenters have been busily employed in getting the timbers knees etc for Captain Buchanan's new steamer ready Mr Loller has the contract for build ing the hull and is crowding the work for ward with all convenient dispatch All the timbers for the hull have been got out and are ready to place in position To-day the keel will be laid at a point some distance north of the Green wich wharf, and the frame will be up in a short time By the middle of October it is expected to have the hull and up per works completed The ponderous engines which are to drive the boat are at the Wil lamet Iron Works being overhauled, and some necessary alterations made to the valves The machinery steam journings etc are also being made at that establishment It is not yet decided whether the boilers will be manu factured here or in San Francisco No bids have been received as yet and consequent ly no contract awarded There are to be three boilers, each 18 feet long and 40 inches in diameter With such steam gener ating facilities and large cylinders the new craft will have more power than any of the steamers on either the Columbia or Wil lamet rivers, and promises to be equal if not superior, in point of speed, to the fastest boats The boat is being constructed with express reference to towing and lightering purposes Her hull will be built of large timbers, securely fastened by means of powerful bolts, and will probably be stronger in that particular than any other boat of equal dimensions which glies these waters

TURNER'S HALL.—Work has been com menced at the corner of Fourth and Yamhill streets for the new Turner Hall Brick for the foundation, was hauled on the grounds several days ago also the timbers for the frame. Carpenters are busily employed in framing the timbers and as soon as the exca vation for the foundation is completed the sharp rap of the mason's trowel will be heard in that locality The plans and specifications which were prepared by Messrs Krumbein & Williams, call for the erection of a substantial two-story wooden building, supported by a brick foundation The building will be 100x 48 feet, the front facing on Fourth street The first (front) half of the lower story will be di vided off into a saloon 17 8x20 4 feet, a hall 8 feet wide, a kitchen 14x17 8, a dining room 20x44-8, offices, dressing room closets, etc The rear half of the first story is designed for the gymnasium—a large room 44 8x48 feet The second story is to be divided into an as sembly room 67-4x44 8 At the rear or east ern end of the building will be placed a large stage 16x44-8 Who assembly room will be seated, and is intended to be used on the oc casion of public exhibitions given by the Turners, ball, etc. In the front end of the building as a ladies' parlor, 14 8x17 8 a hall leading to the stairway closets etc We un derstand that nearly all the required stock has been subscribed and work will go forward uninterruptedly until the completion of the building

RECORDS OF FAST HORSES.—A correspondent desires to know what is the best time on rec ord made by Goldsmith Maid the celebrated trotting mare For this information we will state that the fastest time yet achieved by this celebrated queen of the trotting turf is two minutes and 14 seconds This time was made by Goldsmith Maid in a race—single heat—at Mystic Park During 1874 her best time was that mentioned above Prior to 1874 the fast est time accomplished by her was 2 162 Lulu whose time at a trotting race which came off East a few days since was such as to win for her the proud distinction of Queen of the trotting turf of America, also has a splendid record Her best time in 1874 was 2 162, prior to that year 2 24½ Nettie, another contestant at the race mentioned has an excellent record Her fastest time in 1874 being 2 18 American Girl, who also was a rival for the honors now worn by Lulu made during 1874 a good rec ord the fastest time being 2 16¼ Previous to that year her best time was 2 17¼

GOVERNMENT BARGE.—Last Friday the new government barge, which was built by Mr Loller, below the Greenwich wharf, was launched from the ways This barge was constructed by order of General Michler ex pressly for the purpose of accommodating the employes of the government Heretofore when surveying or repairing parties were sent down along the lower Columbia they were obliged to carry with them camping and cook ing appliances and pass the nights on shore When finished this barge will preclude the necessity of providing such accommodations A cabin is being constructed on the barge which will be divided off into state-rooms and provided with berths Sliding appliances will be attached, so that the barge can navi gate the Columbia and be moved from place to place as occasion may require Within two or three weeks the barge will be finished and ready for the service intended

TRAIN DELAYED.—While the locomotive which is employed to assist in pulling the westside train over the grade at the summit, was on the way out yester day morning the engineer discovered that a tree had fallen across the track at a point beyond bridge No 9 The tree had caught fire and been burning for some time, and during the night fell across the track Both rails were broken by the trunk Fortu nately the engineer discovered the break in the track in time to avert an accident As it was some time before the train would arrive from St Joe word was dispatched to the city at once and a party sent from here The trunk was cut in twain and rolled out of the way and the broken rails replaced Before the obstruction could be removed the train arrived, but a delay of on y about half an hour was occasioned

ANNUAL ANNOUNCEMENT.—We are in receipt of the annual announcement of the Pacific University and Tualatin Academy from which we learn that there were 20 students in the university and normal courses 35 academic students, (ladies') and 56 academic students (gentlemen) making a total attendance during the past school year of 111 The institution is reported to be in a prospering condition

READY FOR CHARTER.—The British bark Dilharre of 1293 tons register A 1 is now ready for charter For particulars apply to Capt. McNeich a Cosmopolitan Hotel

FRACTURED ARM.—Mr Chas Smith met with a severe accident yesterday morning—the result of his team running away about two miles beyond Sandy The horses were at tached to a light wagon and were driven by Mr Smith they suddenly took fright and ran off Smith held the lines with a firm hand until the frightened animals reached a sharp curve in the road when over went the wagon He was hurled violently to the earth and stunned by the fall Away dashed the horses and finding themselves loose turned their heads toward home When Smith recovered his senses he made the unwelcome discovery that his right arm was fractured and that he had received a severe cut in his forehead just above the right eye He was brought to East Portland and received the proper medical at tention

THE MASONIC CELEBRATION.—We are in formed that the Masonic reunion which took place at Olympia proved a grand success The visitors were received at 10 P M on Mon day with a salute and fireworks Tuesday there was a grand procession of three hundred and ceremonies at the grove speeches and din ner and a ball at night The Adam bak will take place to-day At 5 P M they will leave for Victoria on the steamer North Pacific with a band of music There will be a banquet ball and princely ceremonies at Victoria Thursday night The Oregon brethren are charmed with their reception and entertain ment at this place and give great praise to the Olympia brethren

HEADQUARTERS.—A Walla Walla paper states that it has it on competent authority that the military post at that place will very soon be made the headquarters of the 1st cavalry The change would be made without delay but for the reason that Col Gilham is about to be retired and it is desirable not to make the change until the name of his successor is announced With the headquarters will come the regimental band and we need not say how pleasant it will be to have a full mil itary band to discourse music at our balls par ties etc

SURVEYING PARTY.—Mr R A Habersham, who has charge of the surveying party now examining the channel of the upper Wal lamet writes a letter to Gen Michler in which he states that the party is near Harrisburg, and coming down the river He says that he has not been able to recover the transit which was lost a few weeks since by the sinking of the boat The level which was also lost at the same time it will be recollected was afterwards recovered. The transit which was sent from here to supply the missing one has been re ceived

A SLIGHT BLAZE.—An alarm of fire was struck last evening at 11 30 from box No 12 It was found that the fire was in a room situ ated in the rear of the old gymnasium build ing which stands on the west side of Second street near the corner of Morrison In less time than it requires to write, the department was on the scene but before the engines could be brought into action the incipient conflagra tion was subdued No damage worthy of note

ENCOURAGING NEWS.—The steamer Otto which arrived at Victoria from Fort Wrangel a few days since, brings encouraging news from Cassiar The claims are at last being worked, and most of them are paying well It is reported that there are no idle men in the mines, and it is probably true for not a single miner came down on the Otter The Otter brought down a mail and express and something over $10 000 in gold dust

FROM LONDON.—The iron bark Blanche 409 tons register Captain Bambrogh, arrived on Saturday night at Esquimalt, and was brought alongside the wharf of her consignees—Henry Rhodes & Co—on Sunday and commenced discharging Monday She has 500 tons of freight for Victoria 100 tons naval stores and 150 tons merchandise for Portland Among the Esquimalt freight are 100 barrels of cement for the dry dock that have not before been published. His introductory remarks, for which there is not space, was very appropriate to the event of to-day.

THE MASONIC EXCURSION.

The first charter issued by any Grand Lodge to open a subordinate lodge of Masons on the Pacific coast, was granted to Multnomah Lodge No. 84, by the Grand Lodge of Missouri, October 19, 1846, "To open a lodge in Oregon City, Oregon Territory." This charter was hauled across the plains in an emigrant wagon. Under this authority, Multnomah Lodge was opened Sept. 11, 1848, Joseph Hull, W. M.; Wm. P. Dougherty, S. W.; and T. C. Cason, J. W.

The names of the officers of the Grand Lodge of Missouri who signed the charter of Multnomah Lodge were: John Ralls, G. M.; J. D. Taylor, D. G. M.; F. S. Ruggles, S. G. W.; I. L. Jacoby, J. G. W.; N. Ledyard, G. S. B.; The first Worshipful Master elected under the Multnomah charter was Bro. J. C. Ainsworth, who is here to-day. He was also the first, W. M. elected on this coast. This illustrious brother is as full of zeal for Masonry now, as when he sounded the gavel for the first time on the shore of the Pacific. Even before civilization had spread to any great extent over the "garden of the Northwest," the emblems of Freemasonry adorned his primitive lodge room. And the tree they planted by him, in the name of Masonry, to the care and culture of which he devoted his whole life, has brought forth good fruit in abundance. May he live many years to enjoy his honors. Other lodges were soon brought into existence, and we see to-day that four American Grand bodies, and one foreign Grand Lodge, have grown up west of the Rocky Mountains since Multnomah Lodge planted the standard of Freemasonry on the Willamette, Oregon, in 1848.

At the first meeting of Multnomah Lodge No. 84, to-wit: September 11, 1848, Albert E. Wilson, A. L. Lovejoy and Chris. Taylor were made Master Masons. They received the lecture together. These brethren have the honor of being the first who received the degrees of Free Masonry on the Pacific coast. All are living except Bro. Wilson, who died in Oregon City in 1857.

The charter of Multnomah Lodge No. 84 was entrusted to the care of Bro. B. B. Cornwall, who on arriving at Fort Hall in the summer of 1848, concluded to go to California, and in order to complete the trust in his hands, placed Multnomah charter in the custody of Bros. Orrin Kellogg and Joseph Kellogg, father and son, who dismounted at a small trunk in which it finished the journey, and from which it was safely delivered to the brethren in Oregon Territory. This trunk was made in 1834 by Bro. Joseph Kellogg—who is here to-day, and now presents it to you as a memento and a Masonic relic of peculiar interest. This is the trunk. Bro. Orrin Kellogg, a Mason of 63 years standing, full of the love of his brethren, at a ripe old age, in 1873, died at the age of 84. The first returns of Multnomah lodge show a membership of 57, of which but 12 are left. On the 27th of November, 1850, A. L. 5850, a charter was granted to Willamette Lodge No. 11, by the Grand Lodge of California, "To open and continue a lodge in the town of Portland, Oregon Territory." The officers named in the charter were Bros. James P. Long, W. M., R. Wilcox, S. W., and Thomas J. Hobbs, J. W. Under this charter Willamette lodge was opened in Portland, O. T. January 4th, A. L. 5851, A. D. 1851. On the 9th day of May, A. L. 5851, A. D. 1851, a charter was granted to Lafayette lodge No. 15, by the Grand Lodge of California, "To open and hold a lodge in Lafayette, in Oregon Territory." The officers mentioned in the charter were E. B. Martin, W. M., Joel Palmer, S. W., and H. A. Hembrie, J. W.

The important question of having a Grand Lodge was agitated. Consequently, on the 16th of August, A. L. 5851, A. D. 1851, a convention of A. F. & A. Masons of the Territory of Oregon was held at Oregon City to form a Grand Lodge. Bro. Berryman Jennings was elected chairman, and Bro. Benj. Stark chosen secretary. It was deemed proper and expedient by the convention to proceed with the project, and the secretary was authorized to address the several lodges, and if they deemed the formation of a Grand Lodge wise and expedient, to meet on the second Saturday of September following, in convention, to perfect the organization. This is the anniversary of the convention which convened twenty-four years ago to form the Grand Lodge of Oregon.

On the 13th of September, 1851, delegates from the several lodges met at Oregon City in answer to the call of the convention of August 16th preceding and proceeded to business by electing Bro. John Elliot chairman, and Bro. W. S. Caldwell secretary. The three lodges of Oregon were represented as follows: Multnomah Lodge No. 84, by Bros. J. C. Ainsworth, R. R. Thompson and Forbes Barclay; Willamette Lodge No. 11 was represented by Bros. John Elliot, Lewis May and Benj. Stark; Lafayette Lodge No. 15 was represented by Wm. J. Berry, H. D. Garrett and G. B. Goudy. After the preliminary proceedings, a committee to draft a constitution was appointed, consisting of Bros. Jennings, Stark, Berry and Ainsworth. Bros. Jennings, R. Thompson, Amory Holbrook and W. S. Caldwell were admitted members of the convention.

A constitution was reported and adopted and grand officers were elected under it. Bro. Jennings, who is present with us at this time, was elected G. M; John Elliot, D. G. M.; Wm. J. Berry, S. G. W.; J. C. Ainsworth, J. G. W.; Benj. Stark, Grand Sec.; Rob't Thompson, Treas. Grand officers were installed Sept. 15, 1848. Endorsements were made on the several charters in their order of date, by which Multnomah Lodge became No. 1; Willamette No. 2, and Lafayette No. 3. These lodges were required to pay into the grand treasury the sum of fifty dollars, to defray the expenses of the Grand Lodge—a great deal of work for a small sum of money. Of the number of representatives and members of the convention, who organized the Grand Lodge of Oregon, but six are with us now.

In June, 1852, at the first annual meeting of this Grand Lodge after its organization, 188 members were reported. Thus was formed, under the most favorable circumstances, the Grand Lodge of F. and A. M. of Oregon, with a future of great promise. There was nothing to disturb the relations of the individual lodges composing the Grand Lodge until 1858, when the Grand Lodge of Oregon was made up of twenty-four subordinate lodges instead of three, and when instead of a membership of 188 there were 612 enrolled members. It was at the session of 1858 that Grand Mound Lodge No. 21, and Washington Lodge No. 22, within the Territory of Washington, were chartered, which, with Olympia No. 5, and Steilacoom No. 8, gave the requisite number to form a separate Grand Lodge. Washington having had an independent territorial existence since 1853, to have remarked that nothing disturbed the relations of the lodges until the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Oregon until 1858, when our Washington brethren deemed it desirable to establish an Independent Grand Lodge for their Territory and offered the following resolution, which was adopted by the Grand Lodge of Oregon:

Resolved, That as the severance of the bonds which have united the brethren of that Territory to this Grand Lodge is regarded as ultimately an inevitable necessity, and although the contemplation of its occurrence occasions the most painful emotions, yet whatever regular and Masonic measures may be adopted by the brethren aforesaid during the ensuing Masonic year, for the attainment of that object, will meet with the concurrence and approbation of this Grand Lodge.

Under this resolution the Grand Lodge of Washington was formed, and from that date the jurisdiction of the M. W. G. L. of Oregon over our Washington brethren ceased. Now admitted under most flattering circumstances into the sisterhood of Masonic Grand Lodges, the M. W. Grand Lodge of Washington was thus saluted by the M. W. G. L. of Oregon, at its regular session of 1859:

Resolved, That this Grand Lodge cordially recognizes our neighboring Grand Lodge of Washington, and extend to it fraternal salutations, with the earnest hope that it will strive with us for the accomplishment of the beneficial objects which Masonry has in view.

Having thus briefly recounted the story of the birth of our sister Grand Lodge, and of the merited recognition accorded to her high position, let us look for a moment to the many changes that have taken place since that time. Changes are constantly at work among us, which are almost unobserved, because after the stranger becomes a brother, his family relation remains unaltered, though, he is of the household of his initiation at all.

At the organization of the Grand Washington, she had 69 members; 681. The membership of Olym- 5—now No. 1—has increased tion of the Grand Lodge of 43 to 61, though of that 43 only 18 remain. Steilacoom No. 8—now No. 2, had at the time above mentioned, a membership of 20; of whom but three remain, though she now numbers 48.

Grand Mound surrendered her charter.

Of the 17 brothers who belonged to Washington No. 22, now No. 4, at her seperation from the Grand Lodge of Oregon, only seven remain, though her membership now is 51.

Of the members of Multnomah Lodge No. 84, at the organization of the M. W. Grand Lodge of Oregon, we find the names of Bros. P. G. M., T. F. McElroy and W. P. Dougherty. These brothers are now residents of Washington and aided in the establishment of her Grand Lodge. Having contributed their portion to the formation of these two Masonic Grand bodies, they are entitled to the enjoyment of the awards of honored labor. Bro. McElroy is with us on this occasion.

These changes are not confined to Washington. Oregon presents the same state of things as the following statement shows:

Multnomah No. 1—out of 68 original members but 2 are left; present membership, 97.

Willamette No. 2—out of 31 original members but 12 are left; present membership, 118.

Lafayette No. 3—out of 23 original members but 6 are left; present membership, 15.

Salem No. 4—out of 33 original members but 7 are left; present membership, 97.

Unality No. 6—out of 22 original members but 2 are left; present membership, 13.

Temple No. 7—out of 24 original members but 12 are left; present membership, 10

Jennings No. 9—out of 32 original members but 8 are left; present membership, 46.

Warren No. 10—out of 12 original members but 14 are left; present membership, 84.

Eugene No. 11—out of 31 original members but 10 are left; present membership, 88.

Harmony No. 12—out of 23 original members but 6 are left; present membership, 97.

Laurel No. 13—out of 24 original members but 12 are left; present membership, 57.

Corvallis No. 14—out of 31 original members but 12 are left; present membership, 77.

Wasco No. 15—out of 18 original members but 5 are left; present membership, 56.

Oakland No. 16—out of 8 original members but 9 are left; present membership, 19.

Corinthian No. 17—out of 30 original members but 10 are left; present membership, 66.

Belt No. 18—out of 21 original members but 3 are left; present membership, 25.

Amity No. 20—out of 21 original members but 3 are left; present membership, 32.

Rooter No. 21—out of 12 original members but 1 is left; present membership, 15.

These last returns are taken from the reports of 1874. These reports show a total membership in Oregon of 61 lodges) of 2,179; and in Washington of 681. During the 24 years of existence of the M. W. G. L. of Oregon, but 16 brothers have filled the office of grand master. Two only of that number are dead—brothers Elliot and Holbrook. Had we time we should be pleased to refer to these pioneer Masons more in detail. But as you are all quite familiar with their efforts for masonry, and have often borne testimony to your respect for them, it would be idle to add to your appreciation of what is worth to recapitulate what they have done. Of these pioneers, however, we may speak in general terms, and place their names high up in our masonic temple, where they will be read with pride by admiring members of this great brotherhood from generation to generation. There are, as we have hinted, some incidents so remarkable that they should receive more particular mention. For instance, I am informed that Bro. F. A. Clark, who is present with us to-day, and a member of Olympia Lodge No. 1, was not only a member of Olympia No. 5, and one of the first grand stewards of the M. W. G. L. of Oregon, but was also the first man who was made a Mason in the State of California, and held a grand tiler of the first California Grand Lodge of Masons. Bro. Clark has a history in masonic matters which is valuable to the craft, and which he may well regard as the pride of his life.

In addition to Washington on the north of Oregon, we have the M. W. G. L. of British Columbia, and though it is a foreign jurisdiction and within the territory of a different nationality, it is to us a part of the great Masonic family. And when we are told that he who may be the future king of England is now the R. W. Grand Master of the Masonic brotherhood of that realm, we feel that he in all his glory is arrayed only as one of these. The level of a Master Mason is among the most honorable of positions, and he who worthily stands thereon is a sovereign indeed. We hail, then, our most northwestern sister in Masonry on this continent, as a co-worker on that level which gives universality to those principles that insure the happiness of all who possess them.

Having briefly reviewed your history, permit me, in conclusion, to congratulate you upon your growth and prosperity as a fraternity. Looking to the promising future for the fulfillment of your hopes, and for a continuance of the rich rewards of fraternal intercourse, we may all leave of the present only to be again reunited as time and opportunity offer. Who then are there among you that cannot exclaim with the pioneer fathers of Masonry in these several jurisdictions, in the impressive words of the Psalmist: "Thou hast put gladness in my heart since the time that their corn, wine and oil increased."

This concluded the literary exercises. A basket picnic followed, and in the evening a ball was given in honor of the reunion.

The movement in business circles in all directions, seems to be remarkably quiet, and especially so in financial matters. The slightly increasing demand for funds to apply in marketing the grain crop has made no perceptible difference in the market, and is readily supplied. The grain movement is not yet of enough volume to render the employment of any outside means necessary, nor do the indications of a desire to sell, on the part of holders, even at the present round figure ruling, betoken a large movement, for some time to come.

Local enterprises and improvements are consuming but little, comparatively, of the available capital at present. There is some demand for loans on good real estate security, but that is generally met quite promptly, so that altogether the money market may be considered easy, with few calls of magnitude, and an adequate supply of coin for all the purposes of legitimate trade.

The general business of the wholesale market during the entire week so far has been light, the available force of the interior being engaged in the work of the harvest, and finding less than the usual time to devote exclusively to trade matters. There have been a few buyers on the street, but their purchases have been almost entirely confined to small bills, and only to keep up assortments. They have been very backward, except for necessities, as nearly everybody expects that some decided revolutions in the market on all imported goods will take place upon the opening of the fall trade, and merchants of the State who are accustomed to buy in this market do not intend to supply themselves for the autumn and winter until they can see their way more clearly than at present. The wholesale houses here are now receiving large quantities of goods for the coming season's trade, and have used more than ordinary care in making their selections with reference to the wants of the country, and will be able to render it the part of economy in country dealers to investigate this market before investing in a trip to San Francisco. Prices so far this week show no important fluctuation.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—There have been a few round lots received in this market, and as soon as the active work of the harvest is over, there may be a much freer movement in the local. At present, however, no vessels being in port likely to incur demurrage and farmers with confidence in full prices in the future, there is no one whose interest or immediate wants prompt them to urge the market because any undue excitement. Most of the transactions by exporters are carried on by their agents in the interior and the cost of handling and transporting to this point or Astoria closely calculated. Quotations here for milling parcels is pretty wide range, running from $1 90 by those who purchase for future use, and for small lots to $2 3 central for round lots of choice bought on order. Our figures are the extremes.

FLOUR—The market is still firm at $6 75 bbl for standard extras, $5 50 for good outside and country brands, and $5 for superfine. The present stock in this market is not large, recent shipments to San Francisco and the supply of the local trade having exceeded receipts.

OATS—The receipts have been light for a fortnight past, and the local consumption take up about all offering. The few fields harvested and threshed are reported to have yielded fairly, but later sowed which is yet to harvest it is anticipated will fall considerably below average. Some lots to supply the home trade have been sold at 85 to bushel, but shippers will not pay so much by 25 to bushel.

MILL FEED—There is not a heavy stock in the market, but the demand, which is light, is fairly supplied, at $15@17 per ton for bran, and $30 for middlings. Shorts are quotable at $22 50@25.

BARLEY—Prices are unchanged and in the absence of sufficient transactions to establish prices we quote feed at $1 25, and choice brewing $1 40@1 45 per cwt.

POTATOES—There is an ample supply in the market, and prices for a choice article have receded to 75 @ 80.

ONIONS—Report from the growing crop is favorable. Importations from San Francisco continue Market quotable at from 2½@2¾c ₱ lb.

FRESH FRUIT—Apples, pears and plums are in free receipt, as are also blackberries. Prices continue so unsettled that we are unable to give correctly. The range for apples is 75@$1 50 ₱ box; plums and pears are the same. Blackberries are from 6 to 8c ₱ lb.

BACON—The supply is not so large, and with a falling off in receipts prices have stiffened up a little, and quotations are now furnished at 15c ₱ lb in the sides, 12½@14c for hams, and 8½@9c for shoulders.

LARD—Importation from San Francisco is free. The market is quiet at from 15 to 17c ₱ lb.

EGGS—Though retailers are paying 35c ₱ dozen to-day, the market is dull, and more likely to drop than to advance.

BUTTER—Market firmer for best quality in rolls and also in kegs. We quote rolls for fair to choice, 25@30c, ₱ lb extra choice, 20@25c, and common, 15@20c. In kegs we quote extra at 22@25c ₱ lb in jobbing lots.

CHICKENS—Old were sold to-day as high as $4 50 per dozen, a good deal of the spring chicken yet unsold.

DUCKS—Demand light with prices lower, quotable at $4 50@5 per doz.

BEEF CATTLE—The consumption in this city from July 24, to August 1, 1875, is given at 4,000 head. Slaughterers' prices are 3½@4c ₱ lb net and 1½@2½c on foot.

WOOL—Transactions are a little off at present, though a good deal of the spring clip is yet unsold. The Eastern market has undergone no important fluctuation during a week past. Ours is quotable at 22@25c for choice valley, and 19@21c per lb for Eastern Oregon. Much complaint is yet heard among buyers because of lots of wool badly packed and not graded.

Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefit they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and most effective for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

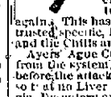
Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.



HAS been widely used during the last twenty-five years, in the treatment of the above class of diseases, and with such unvarying success, that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes or chills once broken by it, do not return, nor will the disease be contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy, and trusted specific, for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayer's Ague Cure counteracts the noxious poison from the system, and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease, so that no Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dropsy or Debility will follow. Indeed, where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison, it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure, but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria, it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is induced by protracted exposure to Malaria and Miasm, has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy.
